Citizen Band Potawatomi Tribe

February, 1986

Committee travels to D.C.

All five members of the Citizen Band Business Committee traveled to Washington D.C. this month to meet with Oklahoma's legislative representatives and the Department of Interior.

Discussion with the government officials focused on the urgency for Interior approval of the tribe's proposed charter, tribal ability to place land in trust, tribal sovereign jurisdiction and tribal ability to license and regulate at the same level as municipalities and states. Tribal officials also met with representatives of DAC (Development Assistance Consultants), International and the Washington law firm of Cotton, Day and Doyle to discuss economic development projects for the tribe, with an ultimate goal of tribal self-sufficiency within five years.

Business Committee members were also pleasantly surprised when an impromptu meeting with Ms. Betty Heitman of Louisiana, Co-Chair of the National Republican Committee, was arranged for their benefit.

'86 Pow Wow to be best yet

Plans are under way to make the 1986 13th Annual Pottawatomie Intertribal (PIP) Pow Wow the biggest and best ever.

The pow wow, held the weekend of the annual tribal election and general council in Shawnee, Oklahoma, is scheduled to begin Friday, June 27, at 2 p.m. Contest dancing will begin Friday evening with the junior girls competition and continue on through the weekend. There will be a free "feed" for pow wow attendees Saturday evening at 5 p.m., sponsored by the PIP Club.

A limited number of RV hook-ups are available for a small fee, as are spaces for arts and crafts booths.

All Citizen Band Potawatomi are invited to attend this celebration of traditional heritage. Over the years the PIP Pow Wow has evolved into one of the biggest pow wows in the nation. Many tribal members have found the last weekend in June to be the perfect time to hold family reunions and this year the HowNiKan is happy to offer free newspaper space for announcements of this type. For further information on the pow wow or to reserve display or RV space, contact Kenneth Peltier, tribal secretary and chairman of the PIP Club, at (405) 275-3121 or 275-0756. To run a free announcement of a family gathering send details to the HowNiKan, Route 5, P.O. Box 151, Shawnee, Oklahoma 74801.

The HowNiKan will be running further details of this year's pow wow and General Council meeting in upcoming issues. The following list of motels and hotels in the

More than 125 people braved rainstorms, tornadoes and crowded seating conditions to attend the first Citizen Band Potawatomi Houston Regional Council Meeting last month.

The overwhelming turnout for the meeting surprised the five Business Committee and two Grievance Committee representatives who traveled to Houston — as well as the conference and catering staffs of the Hotel Luxeford where the meeting was held. Despite cramped conditions and a near food shortage, spirits soared as the Potawatomi people listened to guest lecturer Dr. David Edmunds address them on their heritage and current Business Committee officials talk about the tribe's future.

The Houston Regional Council represents the largest out-of-state gathering of tribal members held to date. A Potawatomi interest group is already being formed in the area and persons who were unable to attend the Council meeting may contact Pat Sulcer at the tribal complex (405 275-3121) for the names of contact people in the Houston area.

Halsey named golf pro

The Citizen Band Potawatomi Tribe — owners of Pottawatomie County's only public golf course, Fire Lake — is pleased to announce that Jerry V. Halsey has been hired as golf pro and course manager.

Halsey was formerly affiliated with Twin Lakes Golf and Country Club, Westwood Park Golf Course and, most recently, Lakewood Golf Course in Ada. Mr. Halsey is a former University of Oklahoma student and has attended the Professional Golfers' Association of America (PGA) training school.

According to Mr. Halsey, Fire Lake patrons can anticipate the formation of company leagues, a well planned juniors' program, golf lessons for beginners and for improvement of established skills and organization of a women's golf association.

Mr. Halsey brings more than 15 years of experience to his new post at Fire Lake. Fire Lake patrons, community members and persons interested in learning the game of golf are encouraged to stop by Fire Lake, enjoy a free cup of coffee and chat with Mr. Halsey.

Fire Lake Golf Course is located on South Beard Street opposite Mission Hill Hospital. Winter hours are from 8 a.m. until dusk, seven days a week.

Percap approved for "deceased" tribal members

Two Citizen Band Potawatomi Business Committee members recently led a personal fight on behalf of more than 70 tribal members who were denied their share of the 1978 per capita distribution.

When an accurate, updated tribal roll was ordered in preparation for the 1978 distribution payment some 70-80 people were, apparently, arbitrarily declared "deceased" on the roll and excluded from payment. Recent correspondence from the Bureau of Indian Affairs Superintendent stated that the tribe could either reimburse those persons wrongfully removed from the roll in 1978 or let the money revert to the tribe for programming purposes.

At the February Business Committee meeting, Tribal Vice Chairman Doyle Owens and Secretary-Treasurer Kenneth Peltier introduced Potawatomi Resolution No. 86-218 approving 1978 per capita payments "to all persons wrongfully declared deceased and subsequently denied their fair share of the 1978 per capita distribution." The resolution passed with a unanimous vote.

Prosthetics Foundation looking for you

Can you guess what two people in Utah, one person in Maine, one person in Pennsylvania and two people in Alabama all have in common? They're all Citizen Band Potawatomi tribal members who received help in the last six months from the Tribal Prosthetics Foundation.

Prosthetics (glasses, dentures, hearing aids, artificial limbs, etc.) monies come from the interest accumulated on money set aside by the tribe from its last settlement in a claim against the United States government for confiscation of tribal lands. Since the June 1985 election more than 150 tribal members have received help with the rising costs of health appliances, including members residing in New Mexico, Montana, Illinois, Florida, Wyoming, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Oregon, Colorado, Tennessee, Missouri, Washington, Arizona, Texas, Nevada, California, Kansas and Oklahoma.

The Prosthetics Foundation provides one of the few services the tribe can offer its out of state members. A Prosthetics Committee meets once a month to review applications for assistance and may authorize up to 75 percent of the total cost for a prosthetic device. Individuals are, however, limited to $750 a year in Foundation assistance. Services are limited to tribal members only.

To qualify for assistance the Prosthetics Committee will need to know your name, address, date of birth, telephone number and your tribal roll number. They will also need to know if you are a head of household, what kind of health device you need assistance with and why. An itemized billing statement from a doctor or supplier, spelling out the device needed and the cost, must be submitted with your application to be considered for assistance.

All correspondence should be directed to the Prosthetics Committee, Citizen Band Potawatomi Tribe, Route 5 Box 151, Shawnee, Oklahoma 74801.

*Do not stand at my grave and weep;
I am not there, I do not sleep.
I am a thousand winds that blow,
I am the diamond glints on snow,
I am the sunlight on ripened grain,
I am the gentle autumn's rain.
When you awaken in the morning hush,
I am the swift uplifting rush

I am the soft stars that shine at night,
Do not stand at my grave and cry;

Gramm-Rudman takes BIA toll

The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has directed federal non-defense agencies to reduce 1986 spending by 4.2 percent to comply with the requirements of the Gramm-Rudman Act and the national effort to limit deficit spending.

For the Bureau of Indian Affairs, which received a 1986 appropriation of $1.002 billion, the reduction will be $43,314,000 spread out over all programs. These cuts must be made within the balance of the fiscal year which ends September 30, 1986.

Interior Assistant Secretary Ross Swimmer has said he will seek recommendations from BIA officials and Indian leaders about the effects of the cuts and the desirability of seeking reprogramming authority from Congress to avoid special hardships.

Ancient site uncovered

The Albuquerque Journal reported on January 10 that the remains of an Anasazi Indian settlement, more than 700 years old, had been uncovered during the construction work on a major highway in the West Mesa area of the city.

The discovery is of pit houses or underground dwellings. The Anasazi are generally regarded as the ancestors of the present-day Pueblo Indians. Construction of the highway has been stopped temporarily while the discovery is studied by professors from the University of New Mexico and others.

The Hopi Tribe reportedly has requested an opportunity to visit the site and, if appropriate, initiate purification ceremonies. The Hopis are expected to be joined by other tribes.

Catholic Missal translated

A Catholic priest on the Navajo reservation has translated the Catholic Missal or Mass book into Navajo and has submitted the translation to the Vatican for approval so that Mass can be celebrated in the native language.

Until the Vatican Council in the early 1960's, only Latin was approved for the Catholic Mass. Since then, translations into the major languages of the world have been approved. The Navajo translation, if authorized, will be the first Native American language approved. The translation has already been approved by the United States Bishops Liturgical Committee.

Health fair to aid diabetes battle

"Diabetes vs. Indians" will be the theme of a diabetes health fair and all-Indian basketball tournament during April.

Sponsored by the University of Oklahoma's American Indian Institute, the health fair and tournament will be at four different school gymnasiums in Tahlequah April 4 through 6.

The unique health promotion activity was conceived by Audrey Dalene Barnett, an American Indian Institute employee and the current Miss Indian Oklahoma.

Diabetes is one of the major killers of American Indians, with rates two to four times higher than for the rest of the United States population, Barnett said. While it is generally believed that diabetes is an "older persons" illness, the rate of diabetes striking Indian youth is rising, she noted.

"In my travels throughout Oklahoma and other parts of the country, I saw more and more of our people succumbing to this chronic illness," she said. "Our Indian heritage has long told us that we should take care of our spirit, mind and body. It is with this in mind that we will be trying to increase the awareness and importance of early detection during the health fair."

The health fair, which will provide screening for diabetes, will be conducted at specific sites during the basketball tournament. Both men's and women's teams will play in the tournament, which begins at 6 p.m. Friday, April 4, and concludes Sunday evening, April 6.

People who want additional information can write or call Barnett or "Bitsy" French at the American Indian Institute, 555 Constitution Ave., Norman, OK 73037; telephone 405/325-1711.

Lumbees — Lost Colony?

A personal in-depth study of the Lumbee Indians and their origins is being made by Bill MacDougall, assistant managing editor of U.S. News and World Report, along with illustrator Charles Brannan, according to The Carolina Voice.

The main focus of the study is whether or not the Lumbee Tribe are descendants of the "Lost Colony."

Chairman Barrett requested that a letter be sent to CFR Court Judge Philip Lujan, requesting his judicial review of the Potawatomi Tribal Codes and Ordinances.

Business Committee - Feb. 18, 1986

Present: Chairman John Barrett, Vice Chairman Doyle Owens, Secretary-Treasurer Kenneth Peltier, Committeeman Bob Davis, Committeeman Francis Levier, Assistant Administrator Pat Sulcer.

Chairman John Barrett called the meeting to order at 6:10 p.m.

Minutes of the Jan. 26, 1986 Business Committee meeting were read. Francis Levier moved to approve the minutes with minor corrections; Doyle Owens seconded. Motion passed 5-0.

Dr. Francis Levier announced that the firm of Arthur Anderson had placed a bid at $31,000 to handle the tribe's federally mandated audit for next year. Business Committee consensus was to offer the firm a counter-proposal of $26,000 - the fee normally paid by the tribe.

Discussion was held on purchasing a mowing machine for Fire Lake Golf Course. Doyle Owens submitted bids received of $9,002 and $8,373 for a three-wheeler and four-wheeler respectively. Owens reported that to fix the mowing machine currently owned by the tribe would cost $5,000. Business Committee consensus was to contact other wholesalers for a G.S.A. rated price.

Doyle Owens announced that he had contacted Earl Lawson to serve on the Health Aids Foundation Committee and Mr. Lawson was willing to do so.

Doyle Owens requested that someone other than him be in charge of contacting possible appointees to the 1986 Election Committee, as he felt it was a conflict of interest for him, as an incumbent, to do so.

A letter was read from the BIA explaining that 70-80 people had mistakenly been declared deceased by the Bureau and, subsequently, had not received their 1978 per capita payment. Doyle Owens moved to approve Pot. Resolution No. 86-218, approving 1978 per capita payments "to all persons wrongfully declared dead and subsequently denied their fair share of the 1978 per capita distribution." Kenneth Peltier seconded the motion; passed 5-0.

Doyle Owens moved to appropriate $73,000 to General Account from the Tax Commission, leaving a balance of $52,000. Bob Davis seconded; motion passed 5-0.

Francis Levier noted for the record that a check for $51,000 from EMCI for last month's tribal share of the bingo profits.

Francis Levier moved to adjourn at 11:05 p.m. Bob Davis seconded; motion passed unanimously.

BIA budget highlights

The President's 1987 budget request of $923.7 million in appropriations for the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) puts new emphasis on the concepts of Indian self-determination and tribal self-government through the introduction of a new line item category for tribal/agency operations, putting almost one-third of the total BIA budget under more direct control to the tribes.

The 1987 request also proposes the transfer of the $22 million Johnson-O'Malley education program to the Department of Education (DOE) and the move of $11.5 million in Title IV education programs from DOE to the BIA. Special legislation to effect this change will be needed. The rationale is to have all programs affecting Indian students attending public schools administered in the Department of Education and to move Indian education programs affecting federal or tribal schools to the BIA.

Interior Assistant Secretary Ross Swimmer, who assumed direction of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in December, 1985, said he "was pleased that the 1978 budget request reflected the growing role of tribal governments in the operation of reservation programs." He added, "Even though the President's budget has been designed to comply with the deficit reduction requirements of the Gramm-Rudman act — with no further reductions anticipated — there is still an increase of $8.5 million provided for the operation of Indian programs." The 1986 total for BIA program operation is $853.6 million; the 1987 request is for $862.1 million.

The Assistant Secretary said he intended to send all tribal chairmen a detailed explanation of the budget request, with further information about opportunities for consolidated grants, contracts and cooperative agreements under the new tribal/agency operations funding category.

The $295 million requested for tribal/agency operations included funding for local service programs planned and operated at the reservation or agency level and some other programs offering direct services to tribes and individuals. The consolidated funding of these operations will allow tribes more flexibility in making local decisions concerning fund usage to meet current needs and will reduce federal restrictions.

Programs receiving 1987 increases include self-determination services, $4.2 million; social services, $1.2 million; business enterprise development, $1.2 million; real estate and financial trust services, $4.6 million; management and administration, $1 million; and a new consolidated training program, $1.4 million.

In your opinion

Tribes more than "racial affiliations"

Editor's Note: A copy of the following letter was forwarded to the HowNiKan for publication. The letter, sent to Oklahoma Attorney General Mike Turpin, is in response to the "Letter from the Chairman" in last month's HowNiKan. We wish more of our tribal members would take an active role of this type in addressing issues of importance to the tribe's survival!

Mr. Mike Turpin
Attorney General, State of Oklahoma
Room 112 State Capitol Building
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73105

Dear Sir:

I write to express my opinion regarding an issue under your jurisdiction in which I have an interest. Though my current address is not in Oklahoma, I am an Oklahoman and will always be. My Great-great-grandfather came to Oklahoma in 1871. He gave his life serving the people of the new Oklahoma Territory when he was killed on December 25, 1891 while serving as a deputy of Frank M. Gault. Pete Anderson was a Citizen Band Potawatomi Indian. I was born in Oklahoma, attended Star-Spencer High School and graduated from Oklahoma State University in 1977. I too am a member of the Citizen Band Potawatomi Indians of Oklahoma.

The issue which concerns me is the State of Oklahoma's possible attempt to impose taxes on the tribal operations of my tribe. I believe that this is in direct violation of the Oklahoma Constitution which guarantees the sovereign nature of Oklahoma Indian tribes. You have inferred that tribes are not sovereign governments but, merely, racial affiliations. However, throughout the years, the United States government has entered into many treaties with the Potawatomi government, not with a racial affiliation. The Citizen Band Potawatomi tribe must be assured of this sovereignty. We rely upon the guarantees of the Oklahoma Constitution for this.

As a student of accounting I learned and understand the basic goal of meeting and financing societal goals through taxation. My heritage tells me that the needs of the many outweigh the needs of the one. However, the effort to possibly tax the small revenues that the tribes are generating is not, in my opinion, the solution to the financial problems that the State of Oklahoma now faces. There are numerous different approaches to the solution of Oklahoma's financial problems. Disregarding the Oklahoma Constitution and many Federal Court precedents which have upheld and established the sovereignty of the tribe is not the answer.

Sincerely,

T. Craig Anderson
Irving, Texas

Education imperative

Dear Editor:

I purchased the book The Potawatomis, Keepers of the Fire by Dr. David Edmunds last December, 1985. When my son, Lonnie Dunkin, and I received an invitation to attend a Regional Council Meeting in Houston and Dr. Edmunds would be the speaker, we said "Who is Dr. Edmunds?" I said, "Why, he is the author of the book I'm reading and enjoying much." We're looking forward to the meeting. My sister's son, Johnny M. Boyd, has also moved to Houston and is going with us. He's on the rolls. We are descendants of Lee Melott.

My father, Lee, attended Sacred Heart Mission, south of Shawnee and later was sent to Lawrence, Kansas, to the Haskell School there.

My daddy's cousin, Jerome Melott, was also sent to the Haskell school. My dad, being only 12 or so years old said he felt very alone if it had not been for Jerome. I later wanted to attend Chilocco Indian School, but Daddy said no, it was too lonesome without me and my sister.

But, because of my daddy going to Haskell, he obtained an engineer's license. Sacred Heart Mission was at that period in time his first and only schooling for which I'm thankful.

We need schools for our Indians I think. I agree with Gladys Small whose letter I read about the Nativity Scene being attacked by certain groups. We don't need these who are against Christianity.

The allotment of lands to my daddy and his brothers named: Lewis, Thomas, Edward, Benjamin and a sister Teresa, was the present town of Wanette and area south and west.

I'm very thankful for the education some of our Potawatomis have and are receiving.

Searching for tribal designs & art

Dear Editor:

Because I have enjoyed the HowNiKan for some years now, I feel more and more a connection with my Potawatomi heritage. As a result of this, my artwork in ceramics and painting is growing towards American Indian design.

Although I am attracted to and interested in all tribes and nations, I would like to do more work with Potawatomi design. I have found few books with this information. If you or anyone else can help me obtain pictures of any kind on our Potawatomi dress, ceramic/pottery, basket, jewelry, blanket, etc. designwork, I would be terribly grateful. I have just ordered Dr. Edmunds' book on the Potawatomis and hope it will enlighten me, but I feel a need to reach out for more input.

My Indian spirit seems to be coming to the fore these days and I am happy to have the HowNiKan fulfill a part of that space. It's a wonderful paper.

Thank you in advance for any help you can offer.

Sincerely,

Jennifer J. Porter

Editor's Note: Deborah Nickou of 6219 Ridge Glade, San Antonio, Texas 78250, has contacted the HowNiKan Network and is interested in corresponding with anyone who has genealogical information on James Brigham Mueller, his sister Margaret Ellen Mueller (who married Theodore Santa Bourassa), his wife Mary Stevens or his parents Eliza and Alex Mueller. Can any of our HowNiKan readers help her out?

Thanks!

My father and I wish to donate $20 to How-Ni-Kan publications. We are Potawatomi Indians, but would like to donate this so that others can receive the paper. We like very much the Potawatomi Dictionary Section of the paper.

Attorney feels genocide in progress

PROVO — The federal government has been trying for the past 200 years to dismantle the culture of the American Indian and in effect is committing ideological genocide, said Steven Moore, attorney for the Native American Rights Fund.

Moore spoke at Brigham Young University's student-sponsored Human Rights Week.

Many attitudes held by officials in the federal government are carry-overs of those developed during the past 500 years in which Indians were thought to have no civilization or culture, Moore said.

"I think that some of the ideas and attitudes of 500 years ago that were developed by the Spanish explorers and monks continue to influence federal Indian policy today," Moore said.

The policy of assimilating American Indians into mainstream society is a mistake, Moore said, and much of the problem comes from the idea — still persistent today — that all Indians must become Christians.

"It all started when the Spanish forced the Indians to accept the king of Spain as their leader and allow the gospel to be preached among them. If they refused this, they were then killed.

"And by doing this, war on these people was made theologically proper and advocated," Moore said.

As Indians were moved to reservations after the end of the Indian wars, most Indians were forbidden by federal law to practice their religions, dances and other cultural events important to them.

"Many of the Indian children were sent to boarding schools that were usually always off the reservation. And I know of many stories related to me personally of people who were tied to chairs and whipped for having gone to religious ceremonies or for speaking their own language," Moors said.

"There are many similarities here that resemble what happened to the Jews when they became a persecuted people. They took their practices underground and hid out in order to practice what they believe, but they held onto the traditions in ways that others couldn't recognize."

In recent year many Indian rights groups and tribal organizations have tried to regain rights, leading to unfair perceptions, he said.

"There is an attitude today that stereotypes them as militant Indians out to reclaim the entire Western hemisphere," Moore said.

One goal Moore's group hopes to accomplish is reburial of Indian skeletons that have been placed in universities and museums for study.

"We estimate that there are more than one-half million Indian bodies stored in museums today. We feel that those bones should be in the ground for cultural and religious reasons.

"Many of the Indians feel it is a desecration of their beliefs for their ancestors to be treated in this manner," Moore said.

All voting is by secret ballot. Upon being identified as being on the official voters' list and not having previously received a ballot, each prospective voter shall:

- Be handed an unused ballot by an election official,
- Sign his name on a voter register, kept for that purpose, to acknowledge receipt of the ballot,
- Vote in privacy, in a voting booth, by marking the box opposite the name of the candidate supported by the voter,
- Fold the ballot so the choice cannot be seen by others, and
- Personally deposit the ballot in the ballot box.

S8-103: Voter Assistance

The election officials may allow a voter to obtain the assistance of any person in casting a vote if the voter is physically unable to cast a ballot and assistance, without previous suggestion, is requested. The Election Committee shall decide whether assistance may be rendered which decision shall be final and unappealable.

S8-104: Marking the Ballot

A ballot shall show only the marking of the voter's choice and shall not show more choices than the election calls for. A person may choose not to vote for any candidate for a particular office. However, if a voter marks a ballot so that the vote is apparently for more than one candidate for a single office or for a candidate not properly listed, or bearing any other such material errors, the ballot will not be counted, but will be marked by official, and retained as hereinafter provided.

S8-105: Mutilated Ballots

If a voter mutilates a ballot or renders the ballot unusable another may be obtained, and the mutilated ballot shall be folded and marked "mutilated" in ink. Each member of the Election Committee on duty at that polling place shall sign below this marking and the mutilated ballot shall be placed in a large envelope marked "mutilated ballots". The envelope containing all mutilated ballots shall be placed in the ballot box at the end of the voting.

S8-106: Unused Ballots

Ballots unused at the end of the voting shall be tied together, marked "unused" in ink, signed by at least two election officials, and placed in the ballot box at the end of the voting.

Chapter Two — Counting The Vote

S8-201: The Tally

At the end of the voting, the absentee ballots, voter registers, and ballot boxes shall be transported to the counting room in the tribal office. Thereafter, the Election Committee shall:

- Unlock the ballot box(es),
- Remove the regular ballots one by one, and
- As each is removed, the clerks shall read off the names of the candidates marked thereupon.

S8-202: Counting the Absentee Ballots

After the count of the regular ballots, the Election Committee shall count the absentee ballots. Each outer envelope shall be opened, but the inner envelope shall remain unopened at that point. The Chairman shall then determine:

- Whether the person whose name is signed to the outer envelope and affidavit is a qualified voter,
- Whether the voter is on the absentee ballot list,
- Whether the voter has already signed the voter register to make sure the voter has not already voted either by another absentee ballot or in person.

S8-203: Counting and Rejecting

Any ballot not properly submitted in accordance with the instructions for absentee balloting or otherwise in violation of this ordinance will be rejected. Unless rejected, the sealed, inner envelope shall be dropped into the official absentee ballot box and remain there until the actual count of all absentee ballots is started. The absentee ballots shall then be counted in the same manner as regular ballots.

S8-204: Observing Tally

At least two election officials shall view each ballot, and each counter shall keep a separate tally of the votes cast. Each candidate may select a watcher, not a candidate, who shall not interfere with the tally process, but can observe and keep a separate record of the tally of the ballots.

S8-205: Rejection of Ballots

If, during the tallying of the votes, the members of the Election Committee are unable to determine from a ballot the choices of a voter, the ballot shall be rejected. A rejected ballot shall be marked "rejected" in ink. Each member of the Election Committee shall sign his name below this marking. Rejected ballots shall be kept together, and placed in the ballot box at the end of the tally.

S8-206: Certified Abstract

At the close of the tally, the Election Committee members shall:

- Open the ballot boxes and display the empty box to all persons present to insure that no ballots are contained therein,
- Determine the total vote cast including the absentee ballots for each candidate for each office,
- Write down these totals, together with the number of rejected ballots, spoiled ballots, unused ballots and total ballots printed,
- Sign the written totals as a certified abstract of the election results,
- Read the certified abstract aloud to the public,
- Deliver copies of the certified abstract to:

- The Business Committee,
- The Tribal Court Clerk, and
- The Election Committee files in the tribal Secretary's Office.

S9-207: Recounts

If the votes cast for two or more candidates (with the highest vote) is tied, or if the highest vote is larger than the next highest vote by less than 10% of the total vote cast for that office, the Election Committee shall immediately open the ballot box and recount the vote for that office on all the unutilized unrejected ballots, rejecting any which it is unable to determine the choice of the voter. The recounts shall continue until two consecutive counts agree, and a new abstract shall then be prepared and read aloud to the public.

S9-208: Request for Recount

Since the Election Ordinance provides for automatic recount of ballots, any request for recount of ballots must list the reasons therefore in writing and be submitted to the Election Committee Chairman, or his designated representative within two (2) working days after the election.

Such request must be accompanied by a non-refundable cashier's check of $200.00 made payable to the Citizen Band Potawatomi Indian Tribe of Oklahoma. Said check shall be forwarded to the tribal Secretary-Treasurer to be credited against the cost of the recount. The Election Committee shall meet and decide within five (5) days of receipt of the notice whether or not such reasons listed in the request are sufficient to cause a recount of ballots. If no recount is made, the $200.00 is refunded.

S9-209: Run-Off Elections

A candidate for membership on the Business Committee must receive the highest number of votes in order to be elected. If the abstract shows that the highest number of votes cast for two or more candidates for an office is tied, a run-off election shall be held within sixty (60) days after the general election. The Election Committee shall supervise the run-off election following the same rules and procedures followed in the general election. Subsequent run-off elections may be held in the same manner if necessary. As soon as some candidate has received a higher vote than any other candidate, no further run-off elections will be had.

S9-210: Retention of Ballots

Upon completion of the election and announcement of the certified abstract, the Election Committee shall lock all ballots and records in the ballot box and deposit the ballot box in the vault of the designated bank, to be held by said bank for safekeeping until final certification of the election results an installation of all officers. Only the Chairman and Secretary of the Election Committee shall have access to these records. After installation of all officers, the Election Committee shall return all ballots and election records to the tribal Secretary to be placed in permanent tribal records for a period of five (5) years. From and after the date of final installation of all elected officials and after the five-year period is completed, the tribal Secretary may remove the election ballots and records, except the final certification of successful candidates, and destroy them.

The final certification of election results entered by the Election Committee shall not be removed but shall be retained as a permanent public record.

S9-211: Election Certification

The Election Committee shall certify the election results for all uncontested offices immediately after the two (2) working day period for filing an election contest expires. If an election office is timely contested, then no certificate of election for contested office shall be issued until, if appropriate, after the election contest is finally decided.

S9-212: Finality

The Election Committee's certification of uncontested election results or the Election Committee's certification of the election results following an election contest provided for herein shall be final and unappealable.

ARTICLE X INSTALLMENT

S10-101: Installment

In order to provide for an orderly transition of power, all newly-elected officers shown on the certificate of election shall be installed immediately following the election.

S10-102: Effect of Installment

Once an officer is installed, removal is only by impeachment, recall or some other procedure authorized by the tribal Constitution.

S10-103: Incumbents

Consistent with Article 12, Section 1 of the Tribal Constitution, the term of an incumbent office holder shall not expire until installation of his successor.

ARTICLE XI
ELECTION CONTESTS
Chapter One — Election Committee Review

S11-101: Who Can Contest

Only a candidate for the disputed office may contest the election results for that office.

S11-102: Grounds

Only two (2) grounds may be asserted for contesting an election. The grounds are that the Election Committee erroneously counted or failed to count ballots, which failures were of such a magnitude that:

- Either the contestant is entitled to be elected to the office, or
- It is impossible to determine with mathematical certainty which candidate is entitled to be elected to the office.

S11-103: When to Contest

Any candidate desiring to contest a tribal election for an office must do so within two (2) business days after announcement of the certified abstract of election results.

S11-104: How to Contest

A contest can only be initiated by:

- Timely filing with the Election Committee a verified statement setting forth the particular grounds for the contest, and
- Depositing $250 in cash with the Election Committee to cover costs of the hearing (if the contest is successful, the cash deposit shall be refunded).

S11-105: Election Committee Hearing

The Election Committee shall set a hearing of the contest no later than five (5) days after the contest is filed. Written notice of such hearing shall be mailed or delivered to each candidate for the office contested. Any party to the election protest and the Election Committee shall have the right to view the election ballots and records in the presence of the Election Committee Chairman in the tribal offices. Any party to the protest or a tribal member shall be entitled to copies of the ballots from the Court Clerk upon payment to said clerk of normal and customary charges. Said certified copies shall be received as evidence by the Election Committee in like manner as an original. Alternatively, the Election Committee, upon request of a party or on its own motion, may convene a hearing for any protested election at the Tribal Courthouse, Shawnee Indian Agency, for the purpose of reviewing the election materials. After hearing the proofs and allegations of the contestants, the Election Committee shall make factual findings and one of the following conclusions:

- That the contested election should be confirmed, or
- The contestant should be declared the winner of the election, or
- The contested election should be set aside and a new election held.

Chapter Two — Appeal

S11-201: Appeal

Any proper party to an election contest aggrieved by the findings and decisions of the Election Committee may appeal to the Tribal Court.

S11-202: Time

An appeal must be filed within five (5) days of receipt of notification of the decision of the Election Committee.

S11-203: Parties

The Election Committee and the person whose election is challenged are indispensable parties to the appeal. Any other candidate for that office may intervene. The individual Election Committee members are not necessary or proper parties to such action. The tribal attorney shall represent the Election Committee.

S11-204: Relief

The Tribal Court whose decision is final may only:

- Confirm the Election Committee decision,
- Order a new election for the contested office, or
- Reverse the Election Committee decision and order the Election Committee to certify the election of the contestant to the office.

S11-205: Standard

Neither the Election Committee nor the Tribal Court shall invalidate any certified abstract of election results and order a new election for an office unless clear and convincing evidence shows that the person receiving the most votes for the contested office as shown on the certified abstract cannot be mathematically determined to be the clear winner.

ARTICLE XII.

REFERENDUM

S12-101: General Council Resolutions

Because they relate to claims or rights growing out of treaties only, all General Council Resolutions shall be voted on in a referendum vote.

S12-102: Referenda Votes

All referenda votes shall be handled in the same manner as that prescribed for casting tribal election ballots. All absentee ballots must be distributed at least 20 days prior to any General Council Meeting and received by the Election Committee by 10:00 a.m. on the day of any General Council Meeting. These ballots will be received for counting and counted on the day of the General Council Meeting and the results certified to the Business Committee. The issues to be voted on must receive a majority vote for adoption. Results of the vote will be published in the tribal newspaper.

S12-103: Resolution Preparation

Preparation of Resolutions for referendum vote shall be by the Business Committee or by provisions provided for under Article X of the Tribal Constitution.

ARTICLE XIII.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS

S13-101: Election Board

When a special election is properly called, the Business Committee by resolution shall establish an independent election board to conduct the special election.

S13-102: Composition

The independent election board shall have the same composition as that of the Election Committee provided for herein.

S13-103: Powers of the Election Board

The independent election board shall have the same powers and duties as set forth herein for the Election Committee and shall have such further powers as are necessary to carry out the duties imposed by the Tribal Constitution and By-Laws. Further, the independent election board will have the power to establish different time periods for filing, challenges, contests and appeals, but shall not have power to change the other substantive and procedural rules provided for herein including, by way of example only, the eligibility to vote and the eligibility and qualifications of a candidate.

ARTICLE XIV.

VIOLATIONS

S14-101: Misdemeanor

In addition to any other penalties (civil or criminal) provided by law, any person willfully violating the duties and obligations imposed by this ordinance is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, may be punished up to the maximum allowed for misdemeanors.

S14-102: Venue and Jurisdiction

The venue and jurisdiction for all violations is exclusively in the Tribal Courts.

ARTICLE XV

QUO WARRANTO

S15-101: What is Quo Warranto

Quo warranto is the name of the writ by which title to an office is resolved. It is not a substitute for or an alternate to the election challenges or appeals provided herein before.

S15-102: Who May Seek

Only a person claiming a better right to the office may bring a quo warranto action.

S15-103: Who is the Proper Party Defendant

The only proper party defendant is the person who holds title to the office.

Editor's Note: The following is excerpted from William H. Keating's "Narrative of an Expedition to the Source of St. Peter's River," Vol. I, published in Philadelphia, date unknown.

The expedition was as kindly treated as they could have wished, by the gentlemen attached to the Indian Department at this place. General Tipton, (the present Indian Agent) and Mr. Hays, (the late Agent) afforded them all the facilities in their power; and to Mr. Kercheval, the sub-agent, they are under great obligations for the information which his long experience of the Indians, and his acquaintance with their language enabled him to communicate. In order to afford to the party an opportunity of obtaining the best information, General Tipton sent for one of the principal chiefs in that vicinity, with whom they conversed for two days.

(The following interview was conducted at Fort Wayne, Indiana in 1823.) The name of this man is Me-te-a. He was represented to us as being the greatest chief of the nation; we had, however, an opportunity of ascertaining afterwards, that he is not the principal chief, but that he has, by his talents as a warrior, and his eloquence as an orator, obtained considerable influence in the councils of his nation. He may be considered as a partisan, who, by his military achievements, has secured to himself the command of an independent tribe. He resides on the St. Joseph, about nine miles above Fort Wayne, at an Indian village called Mus-kwa-wa-sep-c-o-tan (town of the old red wood creek). Being a chief of distinction, he came accompanied by his brother; as his rank required that he should be assisted by someone to light up his pipe, and perform such other duties as always devolve upon attendants.

Metea appears to be a man of about forty or forty-five years of age; he is a full-blooded Potawatomi; his stature is about six feet; he has a forbidding aspect, by no means deficient in dignity; his features are strongly marked and expressive of a haughty and tyrannical disposition; his complexion is dark, like most of the Potawatomis we met with, he is characterized by a low, aquiline, and well-shaped nose; his eyes are small, elongated, and black; they are not set widely apart; his forehead is low and receding; the facial angle amounts to about 80 degrees.

His hair is black and indicates a slight tendency to curl; his cheekbones are remarkably high and prominent, even for those of an Indian; they are not, however, angular, but present very distinctly the rounded appearance which distinguishes the aboriginal American from the Asiatic; his mouth is large, the upper lip prominent; there is something unpleasant in his looks, owing to his opening one of his eyes wider than the other, and a scar which he has upon the wing of his nostril. On first inspection, his countenance would be considered as expressive of defiance and impetuous daring, but upon closer scrutiny, it is found rather to announce obstinate constancy of purpose, and sullen fortitude. We behold in him all the characteristics of the Indian warrior in perfection. If ever the expression of pity or of the kinder affections belonged to his countenance, it has been driven away by the scenes of bloodshed and cruelty through which he has passed.

His dress was old and somewhat dirty, but appeared to have been arranged upon his person with no small degree of care; it consisted of leather leggings buttoned on the outside, a breech-cloth of blue broadcloth, and a short checkered shirt over it; the whole was covered with a blanket, which was secured around his waist with a belt, and hung not ungracefully from his shoulders; generally concealing his right arm, which is rendered useless and somewhat withered, from a wound received during the late war, when he attacked with a small party of Indians, the force that was advancing to the relief of Fort Wayne. His face was carefully painted with vermilion round his left eye. Four feathers, colored without taste, hung behind him secured to a string, which was tied to a lock of his hair. In our second interview with him, he wore a red and white feather in his head, that was covered with other ornaments equally deficient in taste. Mr. Seymour took a likeness of him, which was considered a very striking one by all who knew Metea.

The chief was accompanied by his brother, who is much younger and resembles him, but whose features indicate a more amiable and interesting disposition. We observed, that during the interview, the latter treated Metea with much respect, always preparing and lighting his pipe, and never interfering in the conversation, unless when addressed by the chief. On entering the room where the gentlemen of the party were, Metea shook hands with the agent, but took no notice of the rest of the company, until General Tipton had explained to him, through his interpreter, the nature of the expedition; the objects of his great father, the President, in sending it among the Indians; and the information which would be expected from him now; he informed him likewise that his time and trouble would be suitably rewarded. The chief then rose from his seat, shook hands with all who were present, told them that he would very willingly reply to all of their questions, but according to usage, he was bound to repeat to his nation all the questions that would be asked, and the replies which he would make; that there were certain points, however, on which he could give no information, without having first obtained the formal consent of his community; that on those subjects he would remain silent, while to all others he would reply with cheerfulness, and that after they should have concluded their inquiries, he would likewise ask them some questions, upon points which he thought concerned his nation, and to which he trusted they would in like manner reply. He then resumed his seat, and answered with much intelligence, and with a remarkable degree of patience, all the questions which were asked of him.

Their (the Potawatomi) notions of religion appear to be of the most simple kind; they believe in the existence of an only God, whom they term Kasha-ma-ne-to, or, Great Spirit. Kasha means great, and Maneto, an irresistible almighty being. The epithet of Kasha is never applied to any other word, but as connected with the Supreme Being. It would be highly indecorous to apply it to a house, a horse, or any other visible object. Yet it is, in a few instances, applied to a good man, in order to give more force to the expression, by connecting his good qualities with those which they ascribe to the Great Spirit. They recognize also an Evil Spirit, whom they call Mat-cha-ma-ne-to, (from matcha, which signifies bad). This unfavorable epithet is not restricted in its application, but is extended to all unpleasant or disagreeable objects. They consider themselves indebted to the Good Spirit for the warm winds from the south, while the evil one sends the cold winds and storms of the north. The Matchamaneto resides in the cold regions of the north, where the sun never shines. The Kashamaneto, on the contrary, dwells at the "mid-day-sun's place." Their worship appears to be principally addressed to the Evil Spirit, whom they think it expedient to propitiate; the good one needing no prayers, for his natural goodness will always induce him to assist and protect man without being reminded of it by his petitions; neither do they believe that their prayers to the Evil Spirit can in any manner displease the Good. In certain cases, however, as when afflicted with disease, or when impelled to it in a dream, they will offer a sacrifice of living animals to the Kashamaneto. This is generally done at the suggestion of one of the chiefs or leaders, who calls all of the warriors together, explains to them his views, and appoints one of them to go in search of a buck, to another he commits the killing of a raccoon, to a third he allots some other animal to be killed; and when they have been successful in their respective hunts, they meet, and fasten the first buck which they kill, upon a high pole, and leave it in this situation, so that it may serve as a sacrifice to the Great Spirit. Any other animal would answer as well as a buck. Upon the remainder of the chase they feast. After having boiled the animal, they partake of it in the name of the Great Spirit.

The object of these sacrifices is to obtain luck in their pursuits, whether of hunting or fighting; these feasts are generally accompanied by prayers, dancing, song, etc. The only period when they have regular sacrifices is during the winter and spring of the year; at which time many of the warriors give feasts; each selects the time that suits him best, and invites such guests as he thinks proper. Having assembled them all, he rises, takes a sort of tambourine, formed by fastening a piece of skin or parchment upon a frame, he beats upon this and addresses himself to the divinity, accompanying his invocation by many violent gestures. They have no set form of prayer; when he has concluded, he resumes his seat, hands over the tambourine to another, who proceeds in the same manner. They have regular songs, which they sing together on such occasions. No other music is ever used but that of the tambourine.

Metea told us that the Potawatomis thought that they had always existed in the neighborhood of Lake Michigan; that the first man and woman had been made by the Great Spirit. God sowed the seed and the men sprung up. When called upon to explain what he meant by this, he gave to understand that he had used the language in a figurative point of view, and as a parable. Their tradition at first mentioned but one original couple, the parents of the red people, from whom they believed themselves to have descended. But when they became acquainted with the different races of men, they supposed a couple of white and another of black, had likewise been created by the Great Spirit, and that these had given rise to the white and black people whom they had seen since, but he had not troubled himself much with thinking on this subject. Soon after the white men came among them, they were told that, far to the setting sun, there was a race of people whose features and complexions resembled theirs. This had led them to think upon and discuss this matter frequently among themselves; they had often inquired from other nations whence they came, but they found strong reasons to adhere to their old traditions, that the land on which they now resided was that upon which the Great Spirit had first placed them. Metea has always been of the opinion that there is but one God, who is a Supreme Being, but that he has made a Spirit or God to be under him, whose special duty it is to take charge of the Indians. This he thought to be the common opinion of all the Indians whom he knew. This inferior Deity stood to the Supreme Being in the same relations that the red man stands to the white. The existence of a Bad Spirit is considered as proved by the circumstance of there being bad men, for a Good Spirit could not have made any thing that was evil.

When questioned as to his opinion of a future life, and the immortality of the soul, he unhesitatingly replied that he had heard the white men talk of those things, but had no belief whatever in them. He thought that after death both body and spirit decayed and disappeared; nor would he at all acknowledge a belief in the doctrine which he had heard asserted by the interpreter, as generally entertained by the Indians, that the spirits of the departed returned after death to the Master of Life. In reply to this question he made use of a strong expression, "as a dog dies, so man dies: the dog rots after death, so does man decay after he has ceased to live." Being asked if it was true that they placed provisions near the dead, both at the time of death and afterwards, and if true, wherefore this was done, if both spirit and body decayed together? He replied that this custom really prevailed, but he knew of no other foundation for it, than a dream of one of their ancestors, that a departed friend had appeared to him, and told him he was hungry, which induced him to take provisions to the grave of that man: he knew of no other cause for it. We felt some anxiety to obtain a more satisfactory answer from Metea on this point, as we knew that at the funeral of a nephew of his, he had once expressed himself thus in the presence of a Mrs. Hackley. "His spirit has fled upon a long journey, and you must give him provisions that he may feed upon during his journey." Although all of our attempts at obtaining a different answer from Metea proved abortive, we incline to the opinion that the doctrine of the immortality of the soul, and of a future state of reward and punishment, is generally entertained by them, and that it probably pre-existed to their intercourse with the white man. Our opinion does not merely rest upon the general prevalence of this belief among all those who have made the least advance above the lowest state of barbarism, but upon the uniform opinion on this subject, expressed to us by those who were most conversant with Indian manners, and who had enjoyed the best opportunities of becoming acquainted with them.

From Mr. Barron we heard that they generally admitted the existence of a future life, of which, however, they entertained very confused ideas, believing for the most part that the spirits of those who had lived a good life, went to a country where they could pursue without fatigue their favorite occupation of hunting, where animals would be plenty and fat.

Not so with the spirits of the bad; theirs would be a country barren and nearly destitute of animals, where the chase would become a painful and unprofitable occupation. At any rate, they hold that their existence is at the disposal of the Great Master of Life.

It is impossible in seeing them at present, not to feel convinced that the time for correct information has passed away; they have imbibed from the missionaries so many notions which certainly did not belong to them originally, and the crafty policies of their chiefs to counteract the effect of their intercourse with the white men, has raised so many idle and false traditions, that it is difficult to distinguish the genuine from the false doctrines attributed to these nations in their original state. Of the many interesting customs, which according to their traditions, were formerly prevalent among them, the dereliction of none is more to be regretted than of that which accompanied their marriage ceremony. Their intermarriages with other nations have become so frequent, and the demoralizing tendency of their intercourse with the traders has been so great, that it has led them to neglect practices which were recommended to them by a venerable antiquity.
